SUBJECT: Leader's Narrative.

TO: Commanding Officer, 401st Bombardment Group(H), APO 557 U. S. Army.

Wing Assembly was as briefed, but due to the Division leader being late and his being unable to get in front, the 94th Combat Wing led into the target. Route in was south of briefed and route out was much south of briefed. Fighter support was good going in and coming out. I was able to get fighter support for the two ships falling back after leaving the target. Flak was flushed frequently on return, but was skirted on most occasions. Return over England was uneventful. There are no recommendations.

1. Abortives.

a. Airplane No. 42-31619 returned early because one of the waist gunners became ill.

b. Airplane No. 42-39943 returned early because the oil temperature regulator bypass valve on No. 3 engine became wedged in the open position causing the oil to flow around the jacket of the cooler thereby causing excessively high oil temperature. A high carburetor temperature was found to be caused by a short in the electrical circuit of the carburetor filter assembly by causing it to be in the on position.

c. Airplane No. 42-31037 returned early because the pilot observed liquid flowing from the trailing edge of the wing. Thinking it was a gasoline leak he feathered the engine to prevent fire. Ground Check showed the liquid to be glycol, coming from the heating system overflow.

2. Battle Damage.

a. 42-31662 - Small flak hole in leading edge of right wing. Small flak hole in bottom of fuselage.

b. 42-31891 - 2" flak hole in leading edge of right wing, cutting de-icer lines.

c. 42-97073 - 2" flak hole in bottom of right wing, inner panel.

d. 42-31091 - 3" flak hole in right side of No. 4 accessory cowling.

1 May 1944

SUBJECT: Group Bombardier's Report, Mission of 1 May 1944.

TO : Commanding Officer, 401st Bomb Group, APO 557.

1. BOMBING APPROACH AND RUN: Upon reaching the I.P. it was found that the whole target area was covered with an overcast of 9-10/10 clouds. It was hoped that a break in the clouds would make it possible to bomb, however the undercast gave the group no opportunity to even make more than one check point. There seemed to be no indication of any change in cloud formation, hence, the bombs were held and the group returned to base.

2. DISPOSITION OF BOMBS: 21 A/C Loaded with 124 X 1000# M-44 Bombs took off for the mission. 8 A/C returned early and brought 118 X 1000# M-44 Bombs back to base. One of the aircraft passing over the target jettisoned 6 Bombs in the channel; the remaining aircraft returned all their bombs to base.

TARGET: The target is another of those types which most of you are now familiar with. This particular one has been designated one of eight(8) LARGE SITES and is of course one of the priority ones of the whole lot of them.

Your target area is roughly a right triangle in shape with sides to the right triangle being approx. 500 yards on the east to west line and approx 280 yards on the NNE--SSW and other side making the area quite a large target.

This time your target is not in a wooded area but is a built up area in the clear.

Altho- the exact nature of these targets have not been disclosed to us, recent information received indicates the necessity of bombing these targets out of existence is a very important one. A good bombing job with your bomb load should accomplish this necessity and also limit the number of trips to this area to a minimum.

FRIENDLY ACTIVITIES: Glepps P groups
~~Sigs~~ of 2nd and 3rd BD will also be bombing similar targets.

FIGHTER ESCORT: Area support(detail this) 3 Gp's P-47's and 1 P-51's + 1 P-47's
other Area Ambros
+ Beauwag

SECONDARIES OR T/O NONE INDICATED hit the primary for sure.

2. ~~BRITISH Night Target chart~~ BRITISH Night Target chart(repeat above)
3. PHOTOGRAPHS OF AREA.
4. FLAK(500,000 chart). Stress points to be aware of.
FLAK Route generally good although flak can be expected on the bomb run and in the target area. You are familiar with the possibility of uncharted flak being along your route. Alt. 26,000

PRESENT Info shows NO CONVOYS are to be expected. REPORT ALL YOU SEE

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS

All British Rescue Launches, South of the Humber(Indicate) have been ordered to paint the large RAF ROUNDEL on the largest horizontal surge face. However, some probably will be seen without this roundel.
